

Video Games

When I was about 7 years old, I started playing Super Smash Bros. on the GameCube with my brother. It quickly became one of the most memorable ways we spent time together. Those gaming sessions are some of my earliest and fondest memories of bonding with him. Below are my favorite characters to play as: Cloud from Final Fantasy 7 and Ryu from Street Fighter

Growing up, I spent countless hours playing Call of Duty Zombies with my friends and sometimes with family. It was always an exciting and fun way to connect, whether strategizing together to survive waves of zombies or just enjoying the chaos of the game. Those moments are filled with laughter, teamwork, and unforgettable memories. Below are some of my favorite maps:

Who could forget all of the times I shared with friends and family bonding of numerous classic Mario games, such as Mario Kart, Mario Party, Super Mario Bros., and many other Nintendo games. These family friendly games never failed to bring us together and give us great memories. Below are some of my favorite Nintendo games:

Anime

Over the years, being an anime fan has helped me forge meaningful connections with friends who share the same passion. Anime introduced me to incredible role models whose courage and determination left a lasting impression on me. These stories of resilience and perseverance inspired me to face life's challenges with a never-give-up attitude, and the shared love for these shows created bonds that I deeply cherish. Here are some of my favorite characters, each is the main character from their own show:

Working Out

Over the years, spending time in the gym has allowed me to build meaningful connections with friends who share similar goals and interests. The gym became a space where I not only gained physical strength but also developed confidence and learned valuable lessons in discipline. These experiences have shaped me into a more focused and determined person while fostering friendships that continue to motivate and inspire me. Below are some people in the fitness industry who I deeply respect and admire:
